Attack on the CIA

Case about export of bombers from the United States to Portugal

The CIA supports Portugal's suppression of the resistance movements in Angola and Mozambique, it was claimed today during a trial in Buffalo in the state of New York.

The case concerns the export of seven American B-26 bombers to Portugal, and the Ministry of Justice has sued the 28-year old former Royal Air Force pilot John Hawke. Export of weapons is not allowed according to American law.

Hawke's advocate claimed on Tuesday that Hawke worked on the export of aircraft on behalf of the CIA.

Certain American Government organs wish to hide the fact, that they are trying to help the Portuguese crushing revoltes in Angola and Mozambique, Edwin Harger, the advocate, said, who pleaded for judgement for his client with the motive, that the American Government follows two lines: One for the sake of the public and another in secrecy. The CIA has not commented on the accusations as yet.
